Senior Class Gift Benefits Library

By AL GULLIKSEN

The Senior Class of February, 1948, presented funds to the college for the purchase of their gift to Bryant, Moody's Manual—The Industrial Book.

The 1938 edition of Moody's is a large, finely-bound book of industrial listings, which will prove to be of valuable aid to Bryant students. It is to be placed in the library on a shelf with a special gold plate indicating its origin.

In accordance with its appreciation of such a fine gift, the College has sent a letter of thanks to the Senior Class and promised to renew the issue every year so long as it is of value to Bryant students. The remaining class fund will be used to help purchase subsequent issues.

The choice of the gift was decided by senior class representatives upon the distribution of questionnaires to the seniors for a selection of a worthwhile gift of books. The representatives are Bob Lenkowski, Class President; Bob Pearson, Vice-President; Tim Romano, Secretary-Treasurer; and Jack McNeil, Jack Anderson, George Leema, Larry Remillard, and Danny Gerardi.

On February 5, 1948, the Bryant College Senior Class is presenting its annual Senior Dance at the Rhode Island State Fairgrounds. Music will be by the College dance band, the Stars and Stripes. There will also be a buffet dinner of ham, turkey, or roast beef. All seniors are requested to attend.

In addition to those who arranged for the class gift, the following aided in making the dance arrangements: Bob Pearson, Frank Sinapi, Joe Zaluski, Jerry Lancus, Jack Donnelly, Dick Cybulski, Tony Maria, and Matt Clark.

Parkos, Vinal Honored at Greek Letter, Senate Banquet

By RITA HARTE

On Thursday night, January 22, the Greek Letter Council and the Student Senate held a combined banquet at the Admiral Inn. Honored guests were Vice-President E. Gardner Jacob, Student Activity Director Gregory Parkos, Professor Vinal, and the outgoing and incoming members of Bryant's student organizations.

An amusing talk was given by Dean Dierly of Brown University, advising the men on the proper care and handling of their future wives. His reference to a husband as the "silent partner" brought applause.

Vice-President Jacob presented trophies to the outgoing members of the Greek Letter Council, and Mr. Parkos presented plaques to the outgoing members of the Student Senate.

Both organizations presented Mr. Parkos with outstanding achievement plaques, and Mr. Vinal received a desk set inscribed, "For outstanding achievement during his years at Bryant College."

Harry Fiedler, departing President of the Student Senate, announced Student Senate officers for next semester: Pete Barilla, President; Hank Gaudet, Vice-President; Joanne Maroney, Secretary; and George Bolla, Treasurer.

Gerry Lowly, outgoing President of the Greek Letter Council, announced Ray Kiely as next semester's President.

Champs Topple Chi Gam 47-31

By JIM SHEEDY

In a game that ended before the regulation time ran out because of an outbreak of fights, the Westerly Commodores became the first full title holders by a 47-31 score over Chi Gamma Iota. Ray Nollenti was the big gun for the victors, dropping 21 markers, while Don Hagerdy garnered 10 in a losing cause.

The tilt began as a low scoring contest with the Commodores on top at the end of the initial stanza 9-6. With Nollenti showing the way in the second period, the boys from Westerly increased their advantage to 19-13.

After the intermission, Whitby Bennett and Nollenti combined talents for fifteen counters to increase the spread to 36-25.

Then in the final period of play with the outcome of the contest already decided, the Commodore erupted. It began handsomely enough with two men scrambling for possession of a loose ball. Then in less than two minutes fighting all over the one corner of the gym. After that was finally calmed down, the same thing started to develop on the far side of the court. It was at this point that Westerly was declared the winner 47-31.

Paul Malley of Chi Gam and Whitby Bennett of the victors played outstanding games. Both were rebounded well, and their smothering passes set up their teammates for lay-ups on numerous occasions. The coordination of Chi Gam's inability to score and Westerly's running game spelled the difference.

The Necessity of Reflection

February 7, 1958... Just another day in the lives of many. To a Bryant student, however, it is more than just another day, more than just the end of another semester. It is a day that, each a few moments after an exhausting day, the requirements of this past semester, could prove to be pertinent in many future undertakings, whether they be in Bryant or in the business world.

The end of a working period is a customary time for you to stop, take inventory, and ask "Did I obtain the goals that I set for myself in September?" If so, congratulations and praise are in order. If not, self-criticism is sufficient.

If the final results weren't what you expected, the answer may lie in one of two reasons—your goals were too high, or you lost sight of your purpose. By trying to reach out further than your capabilities permitted, you may have been frustrated; you may have been completely disappointed, resulting in discouragement and, in turn, you may have lost your initiative.

If your determination shows a day-to-day persistence standing with little better than negligible results, there is only one answer—no objective. Realizing that such single endeavor is one part of the whole demonstrates the need for an objective and the necessity of tying together and interrelating each part to make a complete and well-organized whole.

hindsight, although many times painful, is a useful tool. The ability to look back and profit by your mistakes is indispensable in today's demanding world.

In Memoriam

The students and faculty of Bryant College were shocked to learn of the death during the latter part of the Christmas vacation of Arthur Minkus, a member of the freshman class. Arthur, who was twenty-one had graduated from the Public Prep School in New Jersey, attended Boston University, and in September of 1957 transferred to Bryant. At the time of his death, he was at the hospital in his home town, Mansfield, Long Island.

A friendly, courteous, and quiet boy, Art was known as one who enjoyed sports, and kept himself in physical trim. While at Boston University, he was the first freshman student to make the varsity wrestling team. He was very popular at Boston University as well as at Bryant.

Anyone who knew Art always had a good word to say about him. He was extremely well liked by the boys at Curtis House.

Arthur Minkus will be remembered by all at Bryant. To his parents, his students, teachers, and staff members of Bryant College extend their deepest sympathy.

John Nicholson Heads Masquers

A meeting of the Bryant Masquers Society was held January 23 and was presided over by President Ed Bertolini.

During this meeting, officers for the coming semester were elected. Those chosen to head the Bryant Masquers were John Nicholson, Tom Fanning, Vivien Levitt, Ina Barclay, Ed Bertolini, and Ray Kahlwein—President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Publicity Chairman, respectively.

Plans involving three plays were then discussed. Suggestions were given for possible performances.

A combination end-of-semester party and installation of officers was held January 26 in the Barn Studio. Music and refreshments were provided.

Beta Sigma Chi Pledgees, Officers Sworn in

By BILL BROWN

On Wednesday night, January 23, Beta Sigma Chi held its Formal Installation Banquet at the Admiral Inn. The Fraternity was honored to have advisors Dean Nelson J. Galski and Professor Henry J. Lee join them in the toasting of the new semester.

After the new brothers were installed into the fraternity, Sergeant at Arms Kenny Taylor swore in the following brothers as the spring semester officers: President, Bernie Weir; Vice-President, Ray Lumbo; Secretary, Gary Remley; Treasurer, Jerry Choquette; Assistant Treasurer, Archie Humphrey; Athletic Director, Joe Ovganch; Alumni Secretary, Bob Martin; Sergeant at Arms, Kemp Taylor; Chaplain, Kenny Mason; Public Relations Director, Bill Brown; Executive Council, Dave Best and Paul Bryson.

Larry Remillard, past President, was awarded a trophy for his outstanding performance as the leader of the fraternity. The inscription on the trophy, "Well done," was self-explanatory. Bob Patry, who was chosen the brother who best served the fraternity, was awarded a suitable plaque. Jerry Jarvis and Bob Frederick both received trophies as a token of the fraternity's appreciation for their outstanding services during the past semester.

The success of the banquet was due not only to the committee that planned this function, but also to the fine work of toast master, Bob Laskowski.

Theta Tau to Attend New York Conference

The election of Theta Tau's officers was held Monday, January 27. The officers appointed for this coming semester were Donna Ricci, President; Barbara Walsh, Vice-President; Carol Sorenson, Recording Secretary; Joyce Norton, Treasurer; Cheryl Esley, Corresponding Secretary; Marilyn Sellman, Historian and Archway reporter.

Members of the TT society will represent Bryant in New York at a special teacher-training conference. A drawing to be held February 7 will help defray the expenses of this visit.

The Wandering Mind

Comp Scoop: It's a Snap to Get Bounced

While opening this morning's mail, I found a letter that didn't make much of a first impression with me, but after glancing back at it again, I realized its new value.

Sir (he wrote):

Although this is a very small problem and you probably won't be interested anyway, I am nevertheless writing to you for advice. You see, my problem is that I have to take those comps next week. Well, that's not so bad, but here's the straight skinny: I don't know anything. Could you help me, or give me a pep talk or something, or tell me how to cheat and get away with it? (I prefer that one, if it's convenient.)

Henry L. Brown
Yours in confidence,

Dear Mr. Brown:

I am deeply touched that you wrote to me for advice. Although I've tried to be modest about it and not brag, it's a pretty well-known fact around here that I hold the campus record for taking the most comps since 1923 (that's the year my father was here; we've kept it in the family). So it makes me feel all warm inside to be able to offer my assistance in this matter.

There are many successful methods, but four are very dear to me, and I will tell you these.

Before I do, however, I feel I should set you straight on a few matters.

First of all, we're here for an education. Your reference to "cheating" has a bad connotation. The problem is simply this: You are matching with the instructor. If you can outwit an experienced proctor, who is also your senior, and dodge a few curves, then that is not "cheating", that is application of one's knowledge!

Secondly, most professors don't want to see your shining face staring up at them again next semester so, in reality, you're doing them a favor by insuring yourself of a passing grade.

Now we're ready to be enlightened.

The first, and simplest, is known as the Gyp method, named after John P. Gyp, Bryant '24, who first concocted the theorem that what you see before you is fact. Mr. Gyp took a ruler and measured off strips of Nohova Watermarked bond paper in a uniform size, 14" by 9 1/2". Then, with a pin, ink, and a magnifying glass, he filled enough sheets to outline the important bits from the book "Retailing: Principles and Methods." Needless to say, he got his well-deserved "A", but later, unfortunately, was hospitalized for syphilis.

Another method, just as popular, is the Giff method, invented by George Washington Giff, Bryant '29. Descending from a family who were tailors for many generations, he took his inherited skill and collected several discarded shirts, removed the cuffs and sewed them on his best Arrow button-down. Then with watered-down ink, he inscribed a payroll system, a P&L sheet, and several other pertinent items. The cuffs, one extending halfway up his left elbow, the other, just above his elbow, looked from the front of the cuffs as if it were a new, big league design.

The third method is the Tie method, attributed by many to be the system successfully used by Herold Garner Tie, Bryant '40. A small minority contend that it was introduced by another Tie at Brown, some year.

This method, being so new, might not be advisable for a final comprehensive. If I were you, I'd save this one and try it out first on a mid-term exam. Then if it works, good luck!

All this method involves is putting whatever information you need on the back side of your tie. Then, while at your desk, with a mirror vying securely on your lap, flip the tie up towards your nose as if it were a nervous gesture, or if you are the nervous type, then as if swatting an imaginary fly, and glance quickly into the mirror. As you can tell, speed and a griffling ability to read backwards are the important elements.

The fourth method, called the Watch Method, was discovered by Simon G. Bulvers. (His ancestry was invariably questioned whenever he had to initial anything.) To perform this one, just remove the workings of your watch and replace with a neatly-permuted scroll. (There's an old lady in a used clothing store near Bow's who does an excellent job—cheap, too.) Then replace the glass with a magnifier and you're in business! Just keep winding and the info will keep coming.

No doubt the magnifiers will have thought of a number of others. You'll be able to improve a little, also. Be sure to pass the tips on to the fly.

Sound exciting? Quite a challenge. Oh, one last thought—After you get bounced, I know another college where they are more understanding...

(*With apologies to Rudolph Elice, author of "The Roaming Eye" in the Boston Herald.)

Blacks Dump Whites in Genie Fund Game

Rebello's Foul Shots Prove Deciding Points

Ray Nolletti topped all scorers with 36 markers to pace Frank Del Rocco's "Black" All-Star team to a close win over Tommy Hart's "Whites." All proceeds went to the Genie Fund.

Nolletti, Bennett, and Perlberg netted six points apiece as the Black jumped off to a fast 22-17 first period lead. In the second quarter, it was Alpha Theta Chi's Don Nolan who took over as the Black's workhorse. Nolan threw in eight markers as help increase the advantage to 33-24 at half-time.

In the third stanza the tempo slowed down a bit with the Whites narrowing the gap quite a bit. Don Haggerty and Hal Petersen, the chairs of senior Tom Hart and at the start of the final period they trailed by a mere two points, 33-31.

From then on it was a nip-and-tuck battle, going right down to the wire. Then with only seconds to go Steve Rebello broke the hearts of the Whites as he calmly dunked two free throws to put the game away. The valiant comeback of the Whites was thwarted.

The game was a fine one enjoyed by all of the spectators that attended.

Judo, Anyone?

There is among us at Bryant one man who is quite well versed in one of the oldest sports in the world—Judo. John Cello, a native of Meriden, Conn., now in his third semester of BA 2 was a Judo instructor in the United States Marine Corps for two years at Albany, Georgia.

Cello is interested in pursuing his love of this sport and often goes to the Providence YMCA to work on his mats and stay in shape.

If enough of the men here were to become interested in learning this sport, Cello has informed this reporter that he would be only too glad to take any beginners down to the YMCA and try to show them that Judo is purely a sport and can be very interesting. The reason that such lessons could not be given here in the Bryant gym is that the facilities are limited.

In addition to being a sport, Judo is very valuable for defending one's self against an attack by any adversary.

There will be another story on this for the next issue of the ARCHWAY, and if anyone would like to contact Cello, he can be reached at 25 Bonaventure Street or MA 2-8146.

Nolletti Nets 39 For Season High

The second half of the intramural basketball season got off to a fast start with an intra-fraternity tilt. Tau Epsilon's "A" aggregation showed the form that people have expected all year as they ran all over the Tau Ep "B" squad 31-24. Jimmy Aiello threw 16 markers through the nets while Jack Allen was close behind with 13 for the victors. Davis contributed 10 points for the vanquished.

Kappa Tau Overcomes Phi Sig. In the second encounter, Kappa Tau had little trouble in overcoming a Phi Sigma Nu team that was noticeably weakened by the absence of Dick Gayer. Zilaby of Kappa Tau and DiPillo of Phi Sig were the big guns with ten points each. The final count was 44-28, Kappa Tau.

Commuters Whip Omicron. The Westerly Commuters, first half champions, romped all over a weaker but game Alpha Omicron five. With the score at 14-9 in favor of the Commuters after one quarter of play, the winners just ran Alpha Omicron into the ground as they have done with just about every team they have faced this year. MacVicar garnered 34 points for the champs, while Bobby Clappgood threw in 10 for the losers.

Cooper's Efforts Fail. Despite Dick Cooper's 20-point effort for BIB, Chi Gamma rolled in a comparatively easy 24-21 conquest in their first outing of the second half. Pete Lubinski, Ed Hilt, and Paul Mallory all touched the hoops for double figures.

RAY NOLLETTI

Ray Nolletti's 24 points, an individual high for the season, paced Westerly to its second easy win of the new slate. The superior conditioning of the Rhode Islanders proved to be too much for Beta Iota Beta as they rolled to a 24-21 victory. Dick Cooper threw in 20 markers for the second night in a row for BIB.

Don Haggerty and Pete Lubinski led Chi Gamma to its second win by showing the way over Alpha Omicron 25-23.

Hal Petersen, Jimmy Aiello, and Rudy Federico all hit for double figures in paving the way to a 27-20 victory over a game Beta Sig five. The game was a close one and interesting until Tau Ep hit for 19 points in the third frame to win going away.

Alpha Theta Downs Bib. Alpha Theta Chi, paced by Joe Holland's 16 markers, gained its first victory by downing BIB by a 20-28 score. Dick Cooper, on the basis of his one-handed jump shot, netted 24 points for BIB.

John Pfeich's accuracy and Dick Gayer's passes and shots accounted for 40 points for Phi Sig, but they were not enough to match the all-around superior power of Westerly, and the Commuters galloped to their third win 27-22. Once again Ray Nolletti was the big gun for the winners, coming up with 22 markers.

In one of the closest games of this season, Tau Epsilon's "B" team came from behind in the final period of play to shut out a 20-27 win over Beta Sigma Chi. Tim Davis and Steve Rebello were high point men for the winners, while Luzzo grabbed scoring honors for Beta Sig.

Aunt Isabel's Antique Advice

The beseem and perplexed students of Bryant College have been without guidance long enough. To end the frustration and unhappiness on our campus, the ARCHWAY has engaged, at a great expense, the advice column read by millions. In the coming issues, that humble champion of the lovers, Aunt Isabel, will answer the questions of the students. Should any difficulty arise in your love life do not hesitate to use the services of Aunt Isabel. Direct all correspondence to Aunt Isabel, care of the ARCHWAY, and a reply will be directed to you in the following issue.

Dear Aunt Isabel;

I have a problem. I am a freshman at Bryant College, attractive, and very much in love with a tall, handsome, popular Bryant senior. Until a certain blue-eyed blonde from Pembroke came into the picture, I had dated him frequently. Now all he talks about is Ivy League. He doesn't even know I exist. Please tell me what I should do to win him back.

Anti-Ivy

Dear Anti-Ivy;

As a sure fire solution to your problem, why not accept the Ivy League challenge? Wash your hair and get into the act. Also a tempting serving of fresh Ivy will do wonders for your complexion and "school girl" (?) figure.

Dear Aunt Isabel;

I am obsessed with a person who used to attend Bryant. I know that we were meant for each other, despite all the many difficulties we have had. He is now dating a girl whom I know but had him only to himself. How can I regain this love of my life?

Hopeless

Dear Hopeless;

Why not accept a temporary pin from wherever offers. Perhaps your secret love will take notice. If this is disagreeable to you, I can only suggest that you make a busy trip to Ireland and live the Blarney Stone.

Dear Aunt Isabel;

I am a young man with a problem. My love for D. P. is so deep so the common. However, every time I kiss her she giggles and it makes me think that my love is absurd. What am I to do?

Red Sam

Dear Red Sam;

The only remedy I can offer is to confine your good-nights to hard thinking.

Nicholson, Levitt Excel in Man Who Came to Dinner

By RONNIE GRAVESON

THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER, a three-act comedy by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, was presented by the Bryant College Masquers Society on January 14. The entire production was under the direction of Professor Mary T. Appleby.

The play told the story of a famous man-about-town, Sheridan Whiteside, who had an accident on the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley. Unfortunately for the Stanleys, Whiteside was confined to their home. His recovery period was given over to upsetting the household with his blunt manners and spine-tingling insults. His whims and wants more than kept his nurse, secretary, and members of the household, on their toes. Finally Mr. Stanley could no longer put up with Whiteside's nerve-wracking antics and politely threw him out. In order to have the last word, Whiteside brings out an unpleasant memory in the Stanley's family history and, as usual, had the final event his way. Fortunately, or unfortunately, as Whiteside was taking his leave he repeated his accident again. Where? On the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley of course.

Playing the role of Whiteside was John Nicholson, who did a superb job. John and the play in motion and kept it rolling smoothly. One might think that Bryant College had hired a professional actor to come in and play the part. John's magnificent portrayal of Whiteside was excellently backed up by Vivian Levitt as his dutiful nurse, Gail Hamel as Whiteside's lovely secretary, Kay McCormick and Frank Daniels as the ill-fated Mr. and Mrs. Stanley. Beverly Williamson as their pretty daughter, June, and Thomas Marnas as Doctor Bradley, the much abused attending physician.

The remaining members of the cast who did a fine job of adding to the richness of the play included: Robert Waller, John Ray, Richard, Richard, Elaine Michael, Sarah, Veronica Graveson, Mrs. Dexter, Glendice Gagnon, Mrs. McCutcheon, Phyllis Bauman, Harriet, Gary Chace, Bert, Howard Goldstein, Meta, Jeanine Maroney, Loersine, Peter Bauer, Sandy, Tom Fanning, Beverly, Ed Bertolini, Danjo, Les Brown, Westcott, and Henry Gaudet, the inclusion.

Added compliments are given to Mrs. Barry who did an excellent job of preparing the set and properties.

Between acts the Stardusters provided enjoyable music. Bryant's Stardusters are under the direction of Professor Ralph S. Hardy.

The outgoing Masquers' officers are: Edward Bertolini, President; John Nicholson, Vice-President; and Jeanine Maroney, Secretary-Treasurer.

Let's Keep the Gym Clean

Keeping the cafeteria as clean as possible is a goal all must strive for. In the past there hasn't been enough co-operation from the student body. Many have carelessly walked away from the lunch tables leaving a pile of dishes and papers for the next person who sits there. We certainly don't want to eat in a place that is ragged with a name like "Garbage Gulch." Well, only the Bryant students can do something about it. Everyone's co-operation is needed to make this campaign a success. All are well aware of the present situation and the need for improvement.

What can the individual do to help? Before leaving the table, he should take a minute to return his dirty dishes to their proper place and throw his rubbish in the conveniently-located containers. This will take very little of his time but will make a world of difference in the appearance of the cafeteria. When you see a friend leaving a messy table, why not say to him, "How about cleaning up your table?"

If each of us would do his part, there would be a much more pleasant atmosphere in the place where we spend so much of our time between classes. All should work for a cleaner cafeteria and support this campaign with deeds, not just words.

Alpha Theta's Adopted Son Corresponds with Frat

Early last October Anthony Bonaccorso of Alpha Theta Chi, made a suggestion that the brothers adopt a Korean orphan boy. At first, the idea was met with skepticism; but when Tony, a war orphan himself, pointed out how humanitarian the project would be, the brothers voted unanimously to try the venture.

Joe Tammelleo and Tony Bonaccorso were asked to write to the Foster Parent Plan in New York City. The information that they received was encouraging, and when presented to the fraternity, the brothers voted its approval.

Since the paper work and the cost details have been cleared through the Foster Parent Plan, a committee has been set up to write to the boy and to send him pictures of the Bryant Campus.

The brothers have received four letters from their son, telling them of the various things that Korean boys do with their time. Lee Jen Ken, as he is known, is in the seventh grade, is a good student, and is an excellent athlete.

All the brothers agree that adopting Lee has given them a great deal of pride and personal satisfaction.

Recently the following letter was received by Lee:

Dear Friends of the Bryant College:

It's winter here now in the country and days are so cold. I am very glad to write you who has become my new foster parents. Words will not be enough to express my delight in becoming your foster child. For I was once a poor orphan in distress, wandering about the street. I believe that you will be helping me materially and spiritually to the last. This makes me very grateful to you.

I am now 10 years old. My eyes and hair are black. I am in the second year grade and study school busness hard. I am a happy Korean boy who grew very well and play happily with friends.

I like social life best of all the subjects I take in school. So, I like to collect pictures showing all about natural features of all countries in the world. Also, I am good at sports and like them much.

I live in an orphanage called "Cross Orphanage." There are about 200 boys and girls in the orphanage. I live in a room where there are five children stay together. We have one room-head. This is all for today. I look forward to hearing from you. Good-bye.

Sincerely yours,

Lee Jen Ken—K 2079

Music in Review

by Roger Francœur and Gordon Moore

In this issue we should like to review some of the current albums on the market. Johnny Mathis' album, Warm (Columbia CL1074) is a big seller. Among the songs included are My One and Only Love, By Myself, I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face, There Goes My Heart, I'm Glad There Is You, While We're Young, and six others. This is a ballad set, and Mathis continues his efforts to bring back the big ballad to American popular music.

June Christy's new album is entitled Gone for the Day (Capitol T602). Backing her in this album are three instrumental groups, a large string orchestra, and a small string-woodwind group. Miss Christy does her usual competent job on such songs as When the Sun Comes Out, Introduce, Lazy Afternoon, Give Me the Simple Life, Lazy Mood, and When the World Was Young.

Jonah Jones' album, Muted Jazz has won international recognition, largely due to the success of his recording of On the Street Where You Live.

Dakota Station recently appeared at one of the local night-clubs. Singing such hits as My Funny Valentine, Misty, Broadway, made her Providence visit a most memorable one.

On February 18, the Just Jazz will sponsor a jazz concert at Thompson Jr. High School, Newport, Rhode Island. The feature will be Jazz Anthology, with Fred Grady acting as narrator. The concert will include locally-renowned musicians who will offer a program of Dixieland and Modern Jazz. Tickets are $1.00.

Records that have recently sold over a million include—Witchcraft (Frank Sinatra), Ball Along Silvery Moon (Billy Vaughn).
